

Disciplinary procedure

Introduction

This procedure is designed to encourage all employees to achieve high standards of conduct and work performance and also aims to provide a fair, effective and consistent method of dealing with disciplinary matters.

Key principles

- Employees are expected to know the standard of conduct or work performance expected of them.
- Employees will be provided with a management statement of the case prior to any disciplinary meeting and will be allowed to respond to any alleged fault or failing at the meeting.
- At a disciplinary meeting and appeal, an employee is entitled to be accompanied by a recognised trade union representative or work colleague employed by the setting. Other external representatives may not accompany an employee.
- For minor or isolated infringements of rules or expected behaviour, managers and supervisors should give employees informal advice, coaching and counselling as part of their supervisory duties.
- Where an employee's conduct or performance fails to improve as a result of advice, coaching or counselling, or where the offence is more serious, then the disciplinary procedure will be applied.
- A prompt and thorough investigation into the concerns will take place prior to a disciplinary meeting taking place. The employee will be informed that an investigation is taking place as soon as possible. The setting reserves the right to dispense with an investigation interview with the employee (suspected of contravening policies or rules), and to proceed directly to a formal disciplinary meeting.

The employee must take all reasonable steps to attend the disciplinary meeting and any appeal. Except in cases of gross misconduct, no employee will be dismissed for a first offence.

Categories of gross misconduct

Gross misconduct can include:

- theft, fraud and deliberate falsification of records, expenses, qualifications and other offences of dishonesty
- physical violence
- serious bullying or harassment
- deliberate damage to property

- conviction of a criminal offence relevant to the employee's role
- gross negligence
- serious insubordination
- misuse of the setting's property or name
- misuse of electronic communications which defames individuals or brings the organization into disrepute
- bringing the organization into serious disrepute
- serious incapability whilst on duty brought on by alcohol, illegal drugs or legal highs
- serious negligence which causes or might cause unacceptable loss, damage or injury
- serious infringement of health and safety rules
- serious failure to comply with policies, procedures and legal requirements that safeguard children
- serious breach of the early years setting's and statutory policies
- serious breach of confidentiality (subject to the Public Interest (Disclosure) Act 1998)
- defaming or bad mouthing the setting on social networking sites
- serious breaches of the General Data Protection Regulation
- bribery and corruption

This provides the main categories of gross misconduct but is not an exhaustive list.

Steps prior to deciding to take disciplinary action

- When any incident of misconduct or negligence or poor performance is alleged to have occurred, the manager must establish the facts to decide whether there is a need for a disciplinary meeting.
- Where appropriate/possible, signed written statements should be obtained as quickly as possible from the individual(s) concerned and should include where possible, dates, times, details of those present and the issues of concern.

Procedure

- At the earliest opportunity the manager must inform the employee that an allegation/incident has occurred and that an investigation is to take place.
- Following an appropriate investigation, the manager must prepare a written statement of the employee's alleged conduct or characteristics, or of the circumstance which have led to the contemplation of taking disciplinary action.

- The manager must send the statement and any witness statements to the employee, including any evidence that will be relied upon at the meeting and invite her/him to attend a disciplinary meeting to discuss the matter. The employee should also be informed of their right to be accompanied at the meeting. Employees should be given an appropriate amount of notice of the meeting in order to prepare their response and to contact any witnesses that she/he wishes to call to the meeting to give evidence.
- A disciplinary meeting must take place before any disciplinary action is taken, (except where the action in question consists of suspension pending a disciplinary meeting). At the disciplinary meeting, the manager (investigation officer) should ensure that the circumstances of the complaint against the employee are presented to the disciplinary panel and that the employee is provided with an opportunity to respond to the management case. The disciplinary panel will then decide whether or not to issue a disciplinary penalty. The outcome of the disciplinary meeting must be confirmed in writing within [10] working days, include the right of appeal and the name of the person to whom any appeal letter should be addressed.
- Where practicable the investigating officer(s) will normally not sit on the disciplinary panel.
- Where practicable the disciplinary panel should consist of a minimum of two people not previously involved in the case.

Appeal

- Any employee who feels they have been disciplined unfairly may appeal in writing to the person named in the disciplinary letter. All appeals must be submitted in writing, clearly setting out the grounds for appeal, within [seven] working days of the date of the disciplinary meeting letter.
- Normally an appeal meeting will be arranged with the employee together with the line manager of the manager, for example, the owner, who issued the disciplinary penalty, within [15] working days of the employee's request.
- A letter detailing the outcome of the appeal should be issued within [10] working days of the appeal meeting.

Disciplinary penalties

- Managers should not issue any disciplinary penalties without a formal meeting.
- There are five disciplinary penalties, which may result from misconduct:
 - formal verbal warning (first formal warning)
 - written warning
 - final written warning
 - dismissal with notice
 - summary dismissal (dismissal without notice on the grounds of gross misconduct)
- The gravity of the offence will determine which disciplinary penalty is issued. All disciplinary penalties must be confirmed in writing.

Formal verbal warning

- Minor breaches of organizational discipline, misconduct or time keeping, or failure to meet performance criteria, may result in a formal verbal warning given by the line manager. The line manager may give this at a disciplinary meeting with the employee. The warning should be confirmed in writing. If the warning relates to unsatisfactory performance then it should set out:
 - the performance required
 - the improvement required
 - the timescale for improvement
 - any review date
 - any support that can be offered to assist the employee to improve their performance
- If the warning relates to conduct, then the nature of the misconduct and the change in behaviour required should be set out in the warning letter.
- The employee may be accompanied at the meeting by a work colleague or a recognised trade union representative.
- The warning will be placed on the employee's personnel file. After a period of [three months], if no further disciplinary action has been found necessary and the minor breach has been resolved, the warning will expire.

Written warnings

- If the infringement is regarded as more serious, or the employee's work or conduct are considered unsatisfactory after they have received a formal verbal warning and after a period has elapsed in which the employee has had time to remedy their work or conduct, a disciplinary meeting conducted by the line manager will be held.
- The employee will be informed of the nature of the complaint and such evidence as may exist, and will be given an opportunity to respond. The employee will be told of the decision and given a letter of confirmation within [10] working days of the disciplinary meeting. The written confirmation will state:
 - the date of the disciplinary meeting and those present
 - the penalty imposed
 - details of the misconduct, poor performance or poor time keeping that has occasioned a warning and the performance required or the change in behaviour required
 - the timescales for performance improvement, where appropriate
 - details of any necessary action to remedy the situation, any period of review, extra training or supervision etc., or the possibility for redeployment/demotion

- that any further misconduct etc. will result in a further disciplinary meeting and will normally result in a confirmed final warning, which if unheeded will result in dismissal with appropriate notice
- that there is a right of appeal
- After a period of [six months], if no further disciplinary action has been found necessary and the minor breach has been resolved, the warning will expire.

Final Written Warning

- If the employee's work or conduct fails to improve, or where the infringement is sufficiently serious, the manager will follow the same procedures as for issuing a written warning. If proven, a final warning, which will be in writing, will be given to the employee warning that any further misconduct will result in dismissal with appropriate notice.
- After a period of [12 months], if no further disciplinary action has been found necessary and the breach has been resolved, the warning will expire.

Gross misconduct

- Employees dismissed with notice will be paid for this notice period. An employee may be dismissed without notice if there has been an act of gross misconduct, or a major breach of duty or conduct that brings the organization into disrepute. The employee will be suspended with pay while the circumstances of the alleged gross misconduct are investigated.
- A dismissal must be confirmed in writing within [10] working days of the date of the disciplinary interview. As well as covering the points stated in section 9 above, the letter should also include details of any outstanding money owed to the employee, how and when it will be paid and the final date of employment.
- In certain cases, where a member of staff is dismissed from the organization or internally disciplined because of misconduct relating to a child, the setting informs the Disclosure and Barring Service.

Suspension

- Suspension should be used in circumstances where the line manager needs to conduct an investigation prior to a hearing where it is felt that the impact of not suspending the employee, during the period, is more likely to be detrimental than suspending them.
- Cases which involve potential gross misconduct will usually result in suspension, particularly when relationships have broken down or where the setting's property or responsibilities to other parties are involved, or where the employee's presence may prejudice the inquiry.
- Suspension should be kept brief and reviewed to ensure that it is not unnecessarily protracted.
- Where a member of staff is suspended because of alleged misconduct relating to a child, the setting informs Ofsted, social services and may also contact the Police and other relevant agencies.

Timescales

- Employees are required to take all reasonable steps to attend hearings. However, should, for a reasonably unforeseen reason, either the employee, the line manager or their companions be unable to attend meetings, they must be rearranged.
- Should an employee's companion be unable to attend, then the employee should make contact within [five] days of the date of the letter to arrange an alternative date that falls within [10] days of the original date provided.
- Time limits may be extended by mutual agreement.

June 2019